ENGINEER KILLED FIVE ARE IN JAIL

Body of Columbus Man
Found In Alley.

Columbus, O., Aug. 19.—The body of A. Carter, 30, an engineer, was found in an alley in the rear of 153 West Naghten street, and five persons are being detained by the police while they investigate this city's latest murder mystery.

The police found several clues which lead them to believe the man was killed inside the house or in the back yard and his body dragged through a coal shed and left in the alley. Before this theory can be substantiated it will be necessary to analyze the stains, supposed to be of blood, found on a board in the coal shed at the rear of the house and on the clothes which had been thrust into a dirty wearing apparel into a boiler filled with water that was in the kitchen.

Those arrested are Mrs. Ruth Cryer, 25, who conducts an alleged rooming house at 153 West Naghten street; William and Charles Layne, 22 and 17, brothers, who live at the same address; Martha Fields, a girl whose house is in Frankfort, Ky., and who for the last two years has been staying at the house; and Joseph Green, 24, a soldier at the Columbus barracks. They all deny that Carter was at the house, although it is said he had been a frequent visitor. They claim any knowledge of how he died.

Plans Discussed

Sea Girl, N. J., Aug. 19.—Governor Wilson returned to Sea Girl after a long rest and he managed to beat the record by about a half hour. The governor today will have a final talk with Joseph E. Davies, secretary of the national committee, who goes to Chicago to open up the branch headquarters, and Charles R. Crane, vice chairman of the finance committee, in connection with the main office in New York.

Christians Massacred.
Cetinje, Montenegro, Aug. 19.—The massacre of Christians in the Scutari district of Albania continues. A number of Christian villages were set on fire by Turkish soldiers.

St. Clairsville, O., Aug. 19.—Worried over financial trouble, Andrew Jackson Straight took carbolic acid and died on his sixty-eighth birthday.

New York's Wonderful and Ever Changing Sky Line

A FEW years have made remarkable changes in the sky line of lower New York. The accompanying photograph shows buildings which would be entirely unknown to a New Yorker who had been abroad five years and fails to show others—skyscraping landmarks in their day—simply because they are hidden by more recent structures. Unmistakable, in the center, towers the Woolworth building, the tallest in the world. The second to the right, with two towers, is the Park Row building, once the tallest office building in New York. The huge new municipal building, with its cupola, is seen at the extreme left. In this general neighborhood, if the observer were in an aeroplane, might be seen two other buildings, each in its time the loftiest in the city—those of the Tribune and the World. Now, from most points on the North river water front, which forms the foreground of the picture, they are invisible by reason of their giant neighbors.

Says That to Best of His Recollection Most of Money Referred to Went to Republican Campaign Committee and Was Used to Carry New York For Roosevelt—Colonel Says That Is Too Early to Discuss Charge.

Atlantic City, Aug. 19.—After numerous conferences here with his friends and political lieutenants in reference to the threatened impeachment proceedings because it is alleged he received $25,000 from John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company, Senator Penrose was asked why he declined to give out the details of the expenditure of the money.

He replied: "If it is true that I am to be called to the bar of the senate to answer the accusation against me, would it be right for me to expose my defense before I was charged with the act which is hinted at? I am ready to answer at any time the accusation, and I defy anyone to say that I ever used corporate money for any purposes."

"I will say, however, that from what I recall of the incident, that most of this money went to the treasurer of the Republican campaign committee and the greater portion of it was used in carrying New York for Roosevelt for president in the campaign of 1904."

Centenary Is Observed At Findlay

One Hundred Years Ago Colonel Findlay Built Fort.

Findlay, O., Aug. 19.—Commemorating the founding of Fort Findlay, from which this city derives its name, by Colonel James Findlay and his soldiers during the war of 1812, a centennial celebration was opened here today, which will last six days. Extensive preparations for the event have been going on for the last six months. A homecoming will be held in connection with the celebration. One woman, who has been away from the city for 60 years, is present to observe the festivities.

A replica of the fort which was built by Colonel Findlay's division of the army commanded by General Hull, while on its disastrous expedition through the unbroken wilderness, is now standing in Park place, this city. Here a greater part of the events of the celebration will be held.

Train Kills Three.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 19.—Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 14 struck a party of six, one mile west of Frostburg station, killing three and injuring two others. The dead are: Mrs. Carrie Schneider, 27; Miss Jennie Schneider, 22; and Miss Bessie Williams, 32. John Dixon, who was with the party, escaped uninjured.

Congress Plans Getaway.

Prominent Police Official.

ROSENTHAL'S STORY WAS OLD

When Gambler Told Tale of Black-mail District Attorney Was Already on Trail of Prominent Men Who Lived by Collecting Toll From Gotham's Underworld—Jack Rose's Attempt to Hold Up Private Club Furnished First Clue.

New York, Aug. 19.—One of the employees of District Attorney Whitman's office is authority for the following statement:

"The district attorney's office has obtained the connecting link between the crooked inspectors and the powerful police department official for whom they worked. Within three weeks this uniformed official and two inspectors will be indicted for extortion."

This assistant district attorney discovered who had been collecting graft for the influential official of the police department. At the same time he uncovered the collector's bank account, covering the period between December, 1911, and August, 1912. In eight months the collector deposited $75,000. It was the method of transferring cash from the bank account of the collector to the pocket of the police department official that supplied evidence against the big man.

The story told by the assistant district attorney, who says positively that there will be indictments within three weeks, was surprising, and as interesting as almost any detail of the explosive Rosenthal case. He prefaced his story with the remark that ever since December last the district attorney's office has been after every police official, uniformed or ununiformed, who has been named as a grafter to the district attorney since the murder of Rosenthal, and that for five months every one of these men has been under surveillance. The story goes back to December, 1911, just about the time that Lieutenant Becker was becoming active in the tenderloin.

"In that month," said the assistant district attorney, "Jack Rose, pretty well known as Becker's collector, went to a poker club made up of well known politicians, and demanded on behalf of Becker that the club put up $150 a month for the privilege of playing poker privately in its own rooms. Now keep in mind that this club had been in existence for 15 years. It wasn't a gambling house. Few people outside of its members knew that poker was being played in its rooms. The men who belonged to it, and who often played a small table stakes or a modest limit game, were politicians of influence."

Players Were Amazed.

"They were amazed when Rose walked in and made his cool request. They couldn't believe their ears. But they didn't take very long to decide what to do. One of them said to Rose: 'Look here, you grafter, you go back and tell the man who sent you that if he ever makes a play of this kind again, that I'll spend the rest of my life putting him in stripes. As for you, get out or you'll be helped out.'"

"Rose went in a hurry and never repeated the demand. Nothing was heard from Becker and the club decided to let the matter drop. They weren't looking for publicity and it helped out."

QUOTES FROM THE RECORDS

Furnishes Figures to Show That Present Administration Has Been Much More Active in Pursuit of Malefactors of Great Wealth Than Preceding One—Points to Standard Oil Dissolution Decision to Prove One of Colonel's Arguments.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Attorney General Wickersham, in view of Colonel Roosevelt's sharp attack on the Taft administration trust-busting record, was asked if he would make a statement showing what the department of justice under President Taft has accomplished along this line. The attorney general pointed to a document which had just been issued by the department which enumerates the cases instituted under the Sherman anti-trust law since its enactment in 1890. This shows that only 44 cases, 25 criminal and 19 civil, were brought during the seven and one-half years of President Roosevelt's occupancy of the White House as compared with 66 cases, 39 criminal and 27 civil, brought during the three and one-half years of the Taft administration.

Mr. Wickersham consented to point out the significance of this enumeration. He showed that in the entire seven and one-half years of the Roosevelt administration only four proceedings of importance were begun and concluded. Two of these were against the so-called beef trust and were abortive. The other two were the Northern Securities case and proceedings against the Hocking trust. All the other big cases brought by the Roosevelt administration have been pushed to conclusion, or practically to an end, by the Taft administration. In addition, the Taft administration has begun proceedings against all the other big trusts in the country that were overlooked or exempted by the Roosevelt administration.

Attorney General Wickersham points out that the Standard Oil trust dissolution, which Mr. Roosevelt now proclaims accomplished nothing, was based on the exact principle of pro rata distribution established by President Roosevelt's own attorney general in the Northern Securities company. Mr. Wickersham has repeatedly pointed out also that the decrees finally rendered and enforced in the Standard Oil case was precisely the decree which, with the full approval of Mr. Roosevelt and his law officers, was prayed for when Mr. Roosevelt's attorney general first brought the suit.

President In Doubt About The Canal Bill

Washington, Aug. 19.—President Taft has decided to sign the Panama canal bill if congress will pass a concurrent resolution providing that no provision of the bill shall supersede any right conferred under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. If the president ascertains that such a resolution can not be put through congress there is some doubt as to what he will do with the bill.

Woman Leads Attack and Captures Police Station.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 19.—Riding up before the police station in Juarez, a woman, said to be the wife of Colonel Alanis, now operating with a rebel band near Paloma, covered the acting chief of police with a Winchester, commanded him to give up his rifles and sixshooters, and seized a half a dozen horses standing in front of the station. Mrs. Alanis was accompanied by several unarmed rebels who had been left behind when Orozco left the city.

Before riding out of Juarez and escaping to the mountains, they entered a number of stores and at the points of rifles and pistols demanded and secured provisions.

DARROW ACQUITTED.

Clarence S. Darrow, the noted criminal lawyer of Chicago, after a trial which dragged through many weary, anxious weeks, stands acquitted of the most serious crime which a lawyer can commit—bribery, an attempt to thwart justice by corrupt methods.

The reports of the happenings behind the doors of the jury room, which are now given to the public, show that in the minds of the twelve men who were sworn to "a true verdict render," there was never any question of Darrow's innocence.

Within thirty-four minutes after the case was finally submitted to the jury the verdict of acquittal was announced in open court.

The charge against Darrow was a monstrous one and the mere fact that he was formally, by presentment of a grand jury, placed on trial cannot fail to cast a cloud over his brilliant career. The world must accept, as it should, the verdict of acquittal and wipe the slab clean of the ugly scratch, but there will always be those who will cling to the claim that the verdict was one of not proven, rather than one of innocence.

It is to be regretted that the trial of Mr. Darrow could not have had some such satisfactory and absolutely conclusive termination as the McNamara case had.

A conclusion of that sort would have silenced even the scoffers and the critical.

But the plea of not guilty, which Mr. Darrow entered, and which the verdict of the jury sustains, being a self serving declaration or a declaration in interest is not accorded the same force as the plea of guilty, that being a declaration against interest.

The verdict of the jury, although the only means which can be provided by law to sustain the plea of not guilty and establish the innocence of accused persons, still leaves the case open for a difference of opinion among those charged with no responsibility.

Mr. Darrow has a great record as a lawyer, has performed yeoman service in the interest of the laboring classes, and although an extremist, even among the most radical of radicals, is entitled to go acquitted in the public mind.

In view of the promptness with which the verdict was rendered, it may be set down for a fact that only the most deeply prejudiced will have the effrontery to still cling openly to the ugly charge against Mr. Darrow.

Poetry—Today

NOTHING TO KICK ABOUT.

'Twill be wearisome watching the days go by
With never a cloud in the sun-bright sky.
And never a flaw in the burdenless breeze
That seems to be doing its best to please;
When evenings are dreamy and lead to sleep
Serene as a shepherdess tending her sheep,
While gathering stars 'round the moon shine out
And there's nothing at all to kick about.

When everything smilingly comes your way
As willing as dusk at the close of day;
When people are kind and the world so good
You couldn't hurt any one if you would;
When answers for turning away red wrath
Are strewn all along your sinless path—
Now wouldn't you long for a frown or pout
Or something or other to kick about?

We'll feel there is something amiss, awry,
In the halcyon days of by and by,
When peacefulness dwells in the neighborhood
And nothing is ever misunderstood;
When every one lives by the Golden Rule
And there's no more work for the human mule—
Oh, the world will be lonesome without a doubt
When there's nothing at all to kick about.

Home's Where the Heart Is.

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, who has just completed her annual prison inspection tour of the South says:

"I believe emphatically that a woman's place is home; but where is her home? Mine is all the way from Boston to San Francisco and from Canada to the Gulf. The question is not what a woman should be allowed to do, but can she do it properly?"

"In this reform—woman suffrage—home is the very watchword, for all the interests of the home, and all the evils that affect the home, are largely dependent upon politics. Women not only should have the power to deal with these, but they could wield it effectively."

Penrose Defies Foes To Take Step

that Colonel Roosevelt's name may be drawn into the disclosures in regard to the $25,000 contribution made by John D. Archbold to Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania in 1904 caused a stir here. The Pennsylvania senator had not returned from Philadelphia, but his friends contend that Colonel Roosevelt had knowledge of the fund that Penrose was raising. Penrose's friends added that the money was used chiefly in pushing the presidential candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt.

It will be recalled that the campaign of 1904 was enlivened at one stage by a charge made by Judge Parker, the Democratic nominee, that the Republican national committee was receiving large contributions from trusts. President Roosevelt was thrown into a rage by Parker's charge and dared him to make good. Parker's friends have contended since that he had information in his possession at that time, but that he was obliged to withhold it on account of Daniel S. Lamont refusing to release him from a pledge of confidence.

Friends of Senator Penrose said that if he speaks out in regard to the Archbold fund there will undoubtedly be a fine rumormongering between him and the colonel.

It has only been within comparatively recent years that Senator Penrose has been emphatically branded as a "bad boss" by Mr. Roosevelt.

NOT TIME TO ANSWER

Roosevelt Will Await Filing of Charges Against Penrose.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Colonel Roosevelt came back to Sagamore Hill flushed with satisfaction over the impression he believes he has made in Massachusetts and Rhode Island and jubilant over the unexpectedly enthusiastic reception accorded to him in those two states. While he reiterated again that he would studiously avoid making a personal attack upon Governor Wilson, he desired to make plain his determination to give blow for blow if the governor himself opened hostilities.

The report from Washington that Senator Penrose had in course of preparation a reply to the accusations of the Pennsylvania Progressives on the score of his having received funds from John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company, in which he would involve Colonel Roosevelt, left the colonel undismayed. He said that it would be time for him to speak when Senator Penrose made his charges.

Pittsburg Progressives Denounce Excuse Offered by Penrose.

Pittsburg, Aug. 19.—Roosevelt leaders in Pittsburg back of the plan to institute impeachment proceedings against Senator Boies Penrose because of the Archbold Standard Oil letter exposures in Hearst's magazine, used the short and ugly word in discussing Penrose's reported plan to explain receipt of money from Archbold on the theory that he got it to use in Roosevelt's fight for reelection in 1904. They declare it is the explanation of a man heading for any port in a storm.

It had been feared Penrose would ignore the charges or deny authenticity of the letters. His rumored plan of action, the Progressives gleefully point out, will put Penrose in the position of receiving $25,000 from the oil trust for a secret purpose.

Jay Knox, Nick Hancher and Till Morris, all of near Clarksburg, a few miles south of New Holland, figured in a runaway accident a few days ago in which Morris was seriously injured.

The horse driven by three men became frightened and ran away, and Morris was kicked in the face by the frightened animal. His jaw was broken, most of his teeth dislocated, and he was frightfully bruised and cut about the face.

So serious were his injuries that he was taken to the hospital in Chilliscothe, where he is slowly mending.

PLENTY OF TIME TO REFORM

Under the Circumstances, Autoist Concluded He Would Wait to Make Restitution.

"There's a thing that has happened to several acquaintances of mine that I wonder has not found its way into print long before this," said the autoist, as a sort of windup to the adventures he had been relating. "They say that when a man is drowning or falling from a great height he thinks of all the mean things he ever did in his whole life. It is the same with an autoist when his machine skids and he sees that he is headed straight for a tree or telegraph pole and cannot possibly avert collision."

"When did you experience this feeling?" was asked.

"About a month ago. I was going along the highway at a clip of 50 miles an hour, when—"

"You said 50."

"I did, and it was 50, though, of course, if I had been arrested I should have sworn that it was under 20. I was making nearly a mile a minute when I struck a wet spot and the machine skidded. Something went wrong with the steering gear at the same time, and we headed for a big telegraph pole. In five seconds I thought of how I beat a farmer out of a dollar; of how a bank once paid me $5 too much; of how I poisoned an old woman's cat; of how I stole a boy's marbles; of how I lied about a man, and of the way I cheated a poor drayman in selling him a horse. All these things rose up before me in the five seconds, and I felt ashamed of them, and wished I could live to make restitution."

"And you are now going about and squaring yourself, being that you lived."

"Well, not exactly. I'll do that some other time. You see, the machine took a skip at the last second and came back into the road again."—Exchange.

Pillars Capped
by Capitals
of Beauty

By REV. FRANK CRANE, Chicago

WHEN King Solomon built his temple he had set up in front of it two pillars, which he called Jachin and Boaz, meaning permanence and strength.

The cunning artist, Hiram of Tyre, made the pillars, which must have been imposing, from the many references to them; and in the account in the book of Kings it is said: "And upon the top of the pillars was lily work; so was the work of the pillars finished."

Lily work upon the pillars! It is a haunting word.

All through the history of architecture men seem to have felt that the pillars of strength should be capped by the capitals of beauty.

The same law holds good in the realm of spiritual reality that holds good in the realm of material appearance.

The law is that the end of strength is beauty, and the basis of beauty is strength.

Virtue is pure strength; it is not usable in the temple of life until it becomes beautiful—that is, till it becomes love.

Love is virtue—with lily work.

Contrariwise, mere amiability, tenderness, a pleasing face and manner, with no strength of character beneath, is nothing but lily work for its own sake; hence cheap and unsatisfying.

So also goodness is the pillar, joy the lily work. Joy without goodness is moral tawdriness, and goodness without joy is moral crudeness.

The puritans were all for pillar; the cavaliers were all for lily work.

There has been a world long conflict between the moralist, seeking for strength and the artist seeking for beauty.

Manly strength is not perfect; nor is womanly beauty; it is the union of the two, the family, which is perfect.

Cromwell and his Ironsides, smashing stained glass windows were pillars.

Read George Eliot's "Romola." Romola's husband was all lily work.

I will tell you when the millennium will come. It will be when the good shall be beautiful, and the beautiful shall be good.

Then shall the future chronicler say: "At that time humanity solved its problem. Righteousness and peace kissed each other. For men had at last learned, in their lives as well as their houses, to crown all pillars with lily work, and put lily work only upon the pillars."

DARROW ACQUITTED.

Clarence S. Darrow, the noted criminal lawyer of Chicago, after a trial which dragged through many weary, anxious weeks, stands acquitted of the most serious crime which a lawyer can commit—bribery, an attempt to thwart justice by corrupt methods.

The reports of the happenings behind the doors of the jury room, which are now given to the public, show that in the minds of the twelve men who were sworn to "a true verdict render," there was never any question of Darrow's innocence.

Within thirty-four minutes after the case was finally submitted to the jury the verdict of acquittal was announced in open court.

The charge against Darrow was a monstrous one and the mere fact that he was formally, by presentment of a grand jury, placed on trial cannot fail to cast a cloud over his brilliant career. The world must accept, as it should, the verdict of acquittal and wipe the slab clean of the ugly scratch, but there will always be those who will cling to the claim that the verdict was one of not proven, rather than one of innocence.

It is to be regretted that the trial of Mr. Darrow could not have had some such satisfactory and absolutely conclusive termination as the McNamara case had.

A conclusion of that sort would have silenced even the scoffers and the critical.

But the plea of not guilty, which Mr. Darrow entered, and which the verdict of the jury sustains, being a self-serving declaration or a declaration in interest is not accorded the same force as the plea of guilty, that being a declaration against interest.

The verdict of the jury, although the only means which can be provided by law to sustain the plea of not guilty and establish the innocence of accused persons, still leaves the case open for a difference of opinion among those charged with no responsibility.

Mr. Darrow has a great record as a lawyer, has performed yeoman service in the interest of the laboring classes, and although an extremist, even among the most radical of radicals, is entitled to go acquitted in the public mind.

In view of the promptness with which the verdict was rendered, it may be set down for a fact that only the most deeply prejudiced will have the effrontery to still cling openly to the ugly charge against Mr. Darrow.

Poetry—Today

NOTHING TO KICK ABOUT.

'Twill be wearisome watching the days go by
With never a cloud in the sun-bright sky.
And never a flaw in the burdenless breeze
That seems to be doing its best to please;
When evenings are dreamy and lead to sleep
Serene as a shepherdess tending her sheep,
While gathering stars 'round the moon shine out
And there's nothing at all to kick about.

When everything smilingly comes your way
As willing as dusk at the close of day;
When people are kind and the world so good
You couldn't hurt any one if you would;
When answers for turning away red wrath
Are strewn all along your sinless path—
Now, wouldn't you long for a frown or pout
Or something or other to kick about?

We'll feel there is something amiss, awry,
In the halcyon days of by and by.
When peacefulness dwells in the neighborhood
And nothing is ever misunderstood;
When every one lives by the Golden Rule
And there's no more work for the human mule—
Oh, the world will be lonesome without a doubt
When there's nothing at all to kick about.

Home's Where the Heart Is.

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, who has just completed her annual prison inspection tour of the South says:

"I believe emphatically that a woman's place is home; but where is her home? Mine is all the way from Boston to San Francisco and from Canada to the Gulf. The question is not what a woman should be allowed to do, but can she do it properly?"

"In this reform—woman suffrage—home is the very watchword, for all the interests of the home, and all the evils that affect the home, are largely dependent upon politics. Women not only should have the power to deal with these, but they could wield it effectively."

that Colonel Roosevelt's name may be drawn into the disclosures in regard to the $25,000 contribution made by John D. Archbold to Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania in 1904 caused a stir here. The Pennsylvania senator had not returned from Philadelphia, but his friends contend that Colonel Roosevelt had knowledge of the fund that Penrose was raising. Penrose's friends added that the money was used chiefly in pushing the presidential candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt.

It will be recalled that the campaign of 1904 was enlivened at one stage by a charge made by Judge Parker, the Democratic nominee, that the Republican national committee was receiving large contributions from trusts. President Roosevelt was thrown into a rage by Parker's charge and dared him to make good. Parker's friends have contended since that he had information in his possession at that time, but that he was obliged to withhold it on account of Daniel S. Lamont refusing to release him from a pledge of confidence.

Friends of Senator Penrose said that if he speaks out in regard to the Archbold fund there will undoubtedly be a fine rumour between him and the colonel.

It has only been within comparatively recent years that Senator Penrose has been emphatically branded as a "bad boss" by Mr. Roosevelt.

NOT TIME TO ANSWER

Roosevelt Will Await Filing of Charges Against Penrose.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Colonel Roosevelt came back to Sagamore Hill flushed with satisfaction over the impression he believes he has made in Massachusetts and Rhode Island and jubilant over the unexpectedly enthusiastic reception accorded to him in those two states. While he reiterated again that he would studiously avoid making a personal attack upon Governor Wilson, he desired to make plain his determination to give blow for blow if the governor himself opened hostilities.

The report from Washington that Senator Penrose had in course of preparation a reply to the accusations of the Pennsylvania Progressives on the score of his having received funds from John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company, in which he would involve Colonel Roosevelt, left the colonel undismayed. He said that it would be time for him to speak when Senator Penrose made his charges.

wasn't their business to stir up scandal. They were merely protecting themselves. But one of them was so made that he told a close friend what had happened and the friend happened to be connected with the district attorney's office.

"From that day this office has been after Becker and other grafting policemen. We knew that one or two inspectors had blossomed into influence at police headquarters, and it was the talk all over town that they were working for one official. About five months ago we got information that clinched us in the belief that grafting was widespread and systematic, and that under the management of big men, one of whom is a civilian outside of the department and one of whom is the police department official referred to, and another is a hotel man with political connections. "Five months ago we began to shadow these men and their underlings. They couldn't go anywhere beyond the range of detectives. Late-ly they suspected that they were being watched, but too late for suspicion to do much good. We knew where they met and with whom they talked.

Graft Case Is Strong.

"Little by little, out of a mass of information, we have built up a case against some of the biggest grafters that will be as strong as the murder case. I am not at liberty to say just how the connection between grafting inspectors and their protector in the police department was obtained. That information is part of the case before the grand jury, but this much can be said—that when the name of the man who had been collector for this official and who had been the go-between for this official and inspectors was learned, the case became comparatively simple. We ran down the collector's bank account. The big man had been rather indiscreet at times in getting his money. That is all I can say."

This question was put to the district attorney: "Aren't you afraid that the men to be indicted will skip town, or afraid at least that some of the important witnesses against them will run away?"

He replied: "Frankly, we are, but these men are being closely watched. If they run they won't run far, and, anyway, running will be an indication of guilt. Most of the members of the police ring are not the sort that run."

District Attorney Whitman arrived from Manchester, Vt., about the same time Sam Schepps reached the city. Mother Kangaroo's Bravery.

During a severe drought in a certain section of Australia, the owner of a country station was sitting one evening on the porch when he saw a kangaroo lingering about, alternately approaching and retiring from the house, as if half in doubt and fear what to do.

At length she approached the water pails, and, taking a young one from her pouch, held it to the water to drink.

While her baby was satisfying its thirst the mother was quivering all over with apprehension, for she was but a few feet from the porch where one of her toes was watching her.

The baby having finished drinking, it was replaced in the pouch and the old kangaroo set off at a rapid pace.

The spectator was so much impressed by the astonishing bravery of the affectionate mother that he made a vow—and kept it—never again to shoot a kangaroo.

wasn't their business to stir up scandal. They were merely protecting themselves. But one of them was so made that he told a close friend what had happened and the friend happened to be connected with the district attorney's office.

"From that day this office has been after Becker and other grafting policemen. We knew that one or two inspectors had blossomed into influence at police headquarters, and it was the talk all over town that they were working for one official. About five months ago we got information that clinched us in the belief that grafting was widespread and systematic, and that under the management of big men, one of whom is a civilian outside of the department and one of whom is the police department official referred to, and another is a hotel man with political connections.

"Five months ago we began to shadow these men and their underlings. They couldn't go anywhere beyond the range of detectives. Late-ly they suspected that they were being watched, but too late for suspicion to do much good. We knew where they met and with whom they talked.

Graft Case Is Strong.

"Little by little, out of a mass of information, we have built up a case against some of the biggest grafters that will be as strong as the murder case. I am not at liberty to say just how the connection between grafting inspectors and their protector in the police department was obtained. That information is part of the case before the grand jury, but this much can be said—that when the name of the man who had been collector for this official and who had been the go-between for this official and inspectors was learned, the case became comparatively simple. We ran down the collector's bank account. The big man had been rather indiscreet at times in getting his money. That is all I can say."

This question was put to the district attorney: "Aren't you afraid that the men to be indicted will skip town, or afraid at least that some of the important witnesses against them will run away?"

He replied: "Frankly, we are, but these men are being closely watched. If they run they won't run far, and, anyway, running will be an indication of guilt. Most of the members of the police ring are not the sort that run."

District Attorney Whitman arrived from Manchester, Vt., about the same time Sam Schepps reached the city. After Schepps has had a talk with Jack Rose, who will urge him to tell all he knows about the Rosenthal murder, the man who told Hot Springs (Ark.) officials that he held the key to the situation will be turned over to the district attorney for a good quizzing.

Dr. C. H. Ellsworth, Dentist, 16 Baldwin St., Rochester N. Y. says Foley Kidney Pills gave him immediate relief and strengthened him wonderfully. "For some time past I have been bothered with weak kidneys and bladder trouble. Irregular action, pain and dizzy spells all troubled me. Foley Kidney Pills gave me immediate relief and strengthened me wonderfully. I am pleased to recommend their use." Foley Kidney Pills are specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments, and are always effective for rheumatism, backache, weak back and lumbago. Blackmer and Tanquary.

Mother Kangaroo's Bravery.

During a severe drought in a certain section of Australia, the owner of a country station was sitting one evening on the porch when he saw a kangaroo lingering about, alternately approaching and retreating from the house, as if half in doubt and fear what to do.

At length she approached the water pails, and, taking a young one from her pouch, held it to the water to drink.

While her baby was satisfying its thirst the mother was quivering all over with apprehension, for she was but a few feet from the porch where one of her toes was watching her.

The baby having finished drinking, it was replaced in the pouch and the old kangaroo set off at a rapid pace.

The spectator was so much impressed by the astonishing bravery of the affectionate mother that he made a vow—and kept it—never again to shoot a kangaroo.

ARMORY QUESTION COMES UP TONIGHT

The question of furnishing a site for a State Armory building, in accordance with the request of the large number of petitioners who recently asked Council to secure a site, comes up in Council tonight, when the committee appointed to investigate is to make its report.

It is understood that the committee will favor the giving of one of two or three lots under consideration, and that there is now very little doubt about a site being furnished. Council convenes at 7:30 tonight.

GRASSHOPPER TERMINUS MOVES TO JEFFERSONVILLE

Increased Business Causes Removal of Grasshopper Headquarters to Point Nearer Center of the Division—The Old Schedule of One Trip Each Day Will Be Maintained.

Commencing Monday the Grasshopper train, which has graced Washington with its presence for a great many years, making this the terminal for all operations on the road, will forget that Washington is on the map and make Jeffersonville the terminal in future.

For many years it has been the custom of the train to creep up to Jeffersonville, thence to King Man and back through to Sedalia, returning to Washington in the evening, providing of course that it did not leave the track and wander about in the fields in the proximity of the right-of-way.

Upon its return here it has been the custom to leave the engine on a siding in Henkle's addition, where it was groomed and kept in readiness for next morning, and then, after switching about the local yards for a short time, it would crawl up the line and repeat the performance of lumbering across country again.

But Monday marked a new epoch in the life of the Grasshopper, for business has become so heavy on that road that it was absolutely necessary that the motive power and means of handling the business be kept on the job, and not permitted to run down to this city and then return as the custom has been for years. Jeffersonville will be the "car barn" of the Grasshopper division for the time being at least, and the switching here must be done by another engine. For a time after the road was built, Jeffersonville was made headquarters.

The Grasshopper crew consists of six men, the conductor, engineer, fireman, two brakemen and one groom. The Grasshopper train itself consists of an old engine, a combination passenger and baggage coach and any number of freight cars it may pick up in its journey across country.

The Grasshopper road is probably the only one in Ohio which has no road-bed other than mother earth, the ties and rails resting directly upon the earth.

Because no reasonable schedule could be maintained on the road, the mail service was withdrawn from the road some three years ago.

CUTTING DOWN WOODS INJURES WHEAT CROP.

The Fayette county threshing, delayed by rains, is being finished this week.

The statement made by Secretary Sandles of the State Board of Agriculture, that nearly all wheat fields which produced a fine crop this year were protected by trees through the winter storms. Secretary Sandles urges that more trees be planted and forests be left standing.

The severe winter and wet weather also injured the quality of the wheat, a good deal of it testing poorly. The highest testing wheat which has been learned, where there was no winter protection, was 61, wheat, threshed on the Carman farm near Selden having also a yield of 26 bushels.

Wheat that tested 58 and 59 was extra good this year.

Thrashing Machine Badly Torn Up

Saturday while thrashing for John Peters in Upper Paint township, the machine of Charles Moore was damaged so that it will require some time to make repairs when some foreign object went through the cylinder.

The object caused a number of cylinder teeth to break and clog the machine so that great damage resulted and those in the immediate vicinity narrowly escaped being struck by the flying pieces of steel.

The machine will not be repaired in time to do any more work this season.

Midland Nat'l Bank Dropped His Shoes On the Honor List Issued By Government

Every year the Federal government makes up and issues what is termed the "honor list" of national banks, and it is considered quite a distinction among bankers to have the financial institution with which they are connected included in this blue ribbon list. There are nearly 80,000 national banks in the country and only those that have a surplus equal to or in excess of their capital stock are entitled to a place in the select list.

Consequently the Midland National of this city, being one of the comparatively few, is quite honored. The honor is emphasized too, when it is remembered that Uncle Sam throws no bouquets and only real merit can stand the acid test which is applied.

Local Company Asks For $100,000 Bonds

The Washington Gas & Electric Company, which owns the plant that furnishes Washington and surrounding towns with electricity, and which also owns the Central Heating system and the gas mains of the city, has made application to the State Board of Public Service for permission to issue bonds in the sum of $100,000.

The company is capitalized at $150,000 and in the application to the Service Board it is set forth that $50,000 of the bond issue is desired for refunding purposes, and the remaining $50,000 for betterments, but just what these betterments will be has not been made public.

The business of the company has been increasing rapidly the past few years, in both central heat, output of gas and electricity for light and power. The extensions to the surrounding towns of Jeffersonville, Bloomington, New Holland and Milledgeville, have been very expensive, and the company is still negotiating with Leesburg with a view to furnishing power and light for that town.

There is little doubt that permission to issue the bonds will be granted by the Public Service Board, which has power to grant or refuse all such requests.

"GAME" TOOK MONEY WIFE CAUSES ARREST

Upon an affidavit filed by Alma Stewart, wife of John Stewart, charging James James, colored, with obtaining a small amount of money from her husband in a "game" recently, James was arrested Saturday night and taken before Mayor Smith, where he was fined $50 and the costs for the offense, $25 of the amount being suspended upon payment of $25 and costs.

James is the proprietor of a pool room on South Main street, and the game mentioned in the affidavit is alleged to have taken place some ten days ago. It is said that James claimed that when Stewart "squealed" he paid him $13, but this seems to have been insufficient to prevent Mrs. Stewart from getting busy and preferring the charges as above set forth.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING IS READY FOR THE ROOF

The new High School building walls, except those of the auditorium, have been completed, and the work of preparing to pour the roof is now under way, and ten days more will probably see the big building under shelter.

Since the walls have been finished the great structure looms up among the trees on the grounds, and its beauty is becoming apparent, but will require the windows, doors, cornice and finishing touches before its real beauty is brought out.

The basement walls and foundation for the auditorium has been completed, and work on that part of the building will be pushed. The main structure is being finished independent of the auditorium, in order that school may be held in it the earliest possible date.

Finishing the basement rooms has been under way for some little time, and while the bricklayers were busy on the walls and the concrete workers busy on the other parts of the structure, the plasterers have been busy playing the trowel in the lower rooms.

Three doors for fire escapes have been cut in the old High school building, and the structure placed in readiness for the opening of school.

BOTH PHONES

Mrs. Ray Maynard gave an exquisitely appointed one o'clock luncheon Saturday in honor of Mrs. Walter La Fever (nee Lulu Baldwin), of Cleveland, who is visiting at her former home in Greenfield, and Mrs. A. L. Slavins, who leaves Greenfield this week to make East Orange, N. J., her future home.

The additional guests were Mrs. Faye Baldwin, Mrs. W. H. Meyers, Mrs. H. M. Carey, Mrs. Walter Dunlap, of Greenfield, and Mrs. D. S. Craig.

The table was lovely, with an immense bowl of richly tinted nasturtiums in the center, place cards and each course carrying out the green and yellow color scheme.

A charming "porch kensington" was given by Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins Saturday afternoon in compliment to her guest, Miss Gail Bodenheimer, of Columbus.

Twenty-five of the younger girls thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon, with the immense palm shaded verandah overlooking the beautiful Hopkins' lawn with its wealth of shrubbery, and delightfully cool and inviting.

Music and a dainty summer collation were adjuncts to the hostess' cordial hospitality.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Pauline Foster, Waverly; Miss Rauch, Norwood; Miss Katharine Dunn, Columbus; Miss Prudence Ferrell, Columbus; Miss Nell Lindley, Terre Haute, Ind.

Miss Wanda Wolford entertained Saturday afternoon with a delightful kensington in honor of her guest, Miss Leona Hamilton.

Sweet peas were tastefully used in decoration and delicious refreshments served.

Assisting the young hostess were Mrs. P. E. Wolford and Miss Virginia Hays.

Miss Helen Snapp was hostess at a pretty little six o'clock dinner Saturday night, in honor of Miss Leona Hamilton. Completing a quintet of guests were Miss Beatrice Kissling, Miss Carrie Shrock, Greenfield; Misses Wanda Wolford and Faye Williams.

A WOMAN'S BACKBONE.

History records many instances where a woman has shown that she possessed clear grit—commonly called backbone. She must have, to be able to half-kill herself over a wash-tub every week.

Women are learning now, however, that if they use Easy Task soap in the laundry it means half the work done while they rest, the clothes are cleaner and sweeter, their hands are not red and ugly, their flannels do not shrink and their linens do not rot.

Announcement For The Ladies

I find pleasure in announcing that the very latest novelties in Materials, Designs and Trimmings for the Fall and Winter Season, '12-13 have now arrived, and I herewith extend a cordial invitation to you to call and inspect same. I fully guarantee Superior Quality, Correct Style, Artistic Workmanship and Perfect Fit. By placing your orders early, before the busy season sets in, you will receive garments when desired and thus avoid annoying disappointments.

CLARK COUNTY MOOSERS ENDORSE REPUBLICANS

At a meeting of the Bull Moose party of Clark county, held in Springfield Saturday afternoon, the entire Republican county ticket from top to bottom, including Dr. R. M. Hughey for Congress, was endorsed.

The endorsement was made by a vote of 87 to 14, indicating the unanimity for the Republican ticket which exists among the Clark county Bull Moose faction. It is thought that in all probability no other county in the Seventh Congressional District will hold a Bull Moose convention before the State convention.

The endorsement of Dr. Hughey Saturday was the action of the faction in Clark county alone, and not for the entire district, so that the action of the Clark county faction must be ratified by the state meeting before Dr. Hughey has the full endorsement of the Bull Moose party in addition to being a candidate on the regular G. O. P. ticket.

A number of those who met in Springfield engaged in heated debate before the deciding vote was cast, during which various charges were hurled back and forth, one speaker stating that the Bull Moose ticket, unless it endorsed the Republican ticket, was used as a cat's paw by the Democrats to defeat both factions and elect a Democratic ticket.

Miss Henrietta Fraas returned to Columbus today after a visit of two weeks with Mrs. V. J. Dahl.

Mr. and Mrs. Halder Boggess, of Mt. Oreb, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Peddicord.

Mrs. A. A. Hyer went to Columbus today for a couple of weeks' visit. Her grandson, Dwight Johnson, who has been visiting his grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Hyer, accompanied her back to his home.

Mrs. R. S. Tice, Mrs. Ora Brannen and Miss Emma Reeder, of Victoria, Old Mexico, who were the guests of Mr. Levi Reeder and family, left today for a visit in Cincinnati before returning to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hutson, Mr. James Vesey and Miss Charity Vesey, attended the funeral of their nephew, Charles Waltzer, at Richland, Logan county, Sunday. Mr. Waltzer's death will be learned with regret by many Washington friends. It was caused by locomotor taxa.

Mr. Bert Maynard, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. K. C. Maynard, left Sunday afternoon for Russell's Point for a few days' stay with his brother, Capt. John Maynard and wife. He will also visit in son, Robert, in Indiana before returning to his home in Waterloo, Ia.

LITTLE NATION OF ANDORRA

Republic is a Veritable Rip Van Winkle Land Hidden High Among the Pyrenees.

Paris, France.—There is nothing else in the world quite like the little "protected republic" of Andorra, a veritable Rip Van Winkle land, hardly yet stirring from its thousand years' slumber, and in its dreams it still hears echoing the march of the valiant paladins of Charlemagne, by whose help it came into being. But it is likely to waken soon and be made to realize that it, too, belongs to the 20th century. For a railroad is being built across the Pyrenees just east of Andorra, and then will be sure to come a wagon road—the valley can be entered now only by a bridle path—from the railroad into its midst.

Perched up among the Pyrenees, on the border between France and Spain and on the ridge of the watershed between the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, the flag of this proud little nation flutters over a region that is almost as much the land of the free and quite as much the home of the brave as is that of the Stars and Stripes, although it includes but 175 square miles and contains a population of only 6,000 souls.

For over 700 years Andorra has thrived under a modified double protectorate, the rule of France on the north and of the Bishop of Urgel on the south. A representative of each lives in the valley, administers justice and receives a small biennial tribute. Otherwise Andorra is an independent and self-governing state. Its relations to these two "over-lords" are a quaint survival of medieval feudalism.

FINDS HIS LONG-LOST RING

Man Gets Wedding Band Buried in Sand Three Years at King's Beach in Massachusetts.

Boston, Mass.—Three years ago this summer J. Franklin Brown, now head bookkeeper in a shoe factory at Chelsea, lost a wedding ring while in bathing on King's Beach, Swampscott. Today he has the ring, and behind its restoration is a story of a bit of detective work.

Two weeks ago Arthur Getchell, mail clerk in the Lynn postoffice, was rolling around on the beach in a bathing suit when the sandy recess in which the ring had lain hidden for three years was exposed. The only clue to the identity of the owner was an inscription on the inside which read, "From Flossie to Frank, Oct. 17, 1905."

How to find the owner on such a meagre clue, when thousands bathe on the beach every summer, was the problem. For a week Getchell searched every place that he could think of. Then, remembering the old adage about two heads being better than one, he consulted a friend, George P. Alley, and, out of their conferences, a bright thought popped forth: "Why not look up the marriage records on that date?"

That settled it. They found a Frank and a Flossie were married and Frank lived then at 53 Essex street, Lynn, from where he was traced. Flossie, before she became Mrs. Brown, was Miss Lauckner of 41 Porter street, Lynn.

NOVEL ELECTRIC RESTAURANT

An electric restaurant, which entirely does away with the services of waiters, has been installed in Paris. It is fitted with tables for one, two, three, four and larger numbers of guests. Beneath the dining room is the kitchen and dishes prepared below are sent straight up to the tables through the floor.

A guest gives his order through an electrophone attached to the electric lamp on the table. The electrophone carries the voice to the kitchen below without any special effort of the diner to speak into it. The dish ordered comes up through a moderate-sized hole in the table. When the diner wishes to get rid of dishes or glasses he merely says so and they disappear silently through the hole by which they came. When the table is a large one the dish can be made to circulate and stop before any diner who wishes it.

No waiter or human assistant appears at the table from the moment the diner sits down until he goes out. When he wishes to pay his check he says so. It comes up through the table, he leaves the money and goes away. There is no waiter to be tipped and none to feel aggrieved because he is not tipped. The inventor of the system is M. Georgia Knap, a noted electrician living in Paris, but of foreign origin.

RAPID SKI-ING ON WATER

A German cabinet maker has constructed a pair of water shoes, with the help of which he walks upon the water. He has already crossed Lake Ammer in Bavaria, 12,000 feet wide, in two hours. These water shoes are really two long, narrow boxes of pine wood, squared off at the rear end and shaped like the bow of a boat in front. To preserve his balance the traveler grasps two upright posts. At the outer edge of each boat or shoe three small paddles, shaped like rudders, are fastened. These move on hinges and are worked by a sliding mechanism that is operated by the traveler pushing his feet forward alternately, somewhat like a boy learning to skate. He can travel rapidly, and with safety on smooth water, although the apparatus is probably not fit for use in stormy weather. Those who have tested it assert that it does not tax the strength as much as rowing a moderately sized boat. The inventor uses his water shoes almost every day for crossing the lake and transporting his tools and a moderate amount of baggage.

DENTISTRY ON AN ELEPHANT

It became necessary recently to call a dentist to one of the elephants in the Zoological gardens at Rio de Janeiro. The dentist saw at once what the trouble was—a hollow tooth—but confessed his inability to fill it or to pull it out without assistance. The elephant was not in a happy frame of mind, for it had a really elephantine toothache. But the dentist and the keepers devised a method. They tied a strong rope to the tooth, fastening it carefully and securely with platinum wire, and then 15 men took hold and pulled. The elephant seemed to know that something for its good was being done for it kept quiet and showed no sign of anger—that is, until the 15 men gave the fourth pull, which brought the huge tooth out. Then the elephant trumpeted with pain and anger and the 15 men deemed it wise to run. But after a few minutes of wrath the beast, now relieved of its pain, became calm.

The Voice of Big Business

Mr. Allen Ripley Foote, of The Ohio State Board of Commerce, has issued a pamphlet of one hundred and sixty pages on the amendments to the State Constitution to be voted upon Tuesday, September 3rd.

This pamphlet is interesting as a revelation of the mind of "the interests," and the attitude of big business generally towards the work of Ohio's Fourth Constitutional Convention.

The orators of reaction will find this a suggestive campaign book. It is heartily commended to all who would like to know what the opposition has to say. Moreover, the progressive, if he has a sense of humor, will find it entertaining reading. It is ingenious in its fault-finding. It is quite pathetic in its lamentations. Distressful things are to befall us. Woe upon woe will assail us, so we are told. The only safety is to vote down all amendments. This is the advice of the privileged rich. They would forego all possibility of progress, for fear of inconvenience to themselves. This is not the counsel that prevailed in 1776. It is not the spirit that put down chattel slavery. What infamies would fill the world, what countless cruelties would still remain, if the divine impulse for improvement had never triumphed over the craven fear which forever places the miser's hoard above the budding and hungry hard-clinking dollars above aching human hearts; little deeds above the sermon on the Mount.

The Ohio State Board of Commerce, through its agent, Allen Ripley Foote, complains that the special election is to be held Tuesday, September 3rd, before the debates of the Convention can be printed. Big business pretends to find in this fact evidence of a conspiracy. It is contended that the people should have been given a chance to read the debates before voting upon the forty-two amendments.

We respectfully call attention to the fact that the proceedings of the Federal Constitutional Convention never were published. The private notes of Madison even were not made public until the constitution was a half-century old. Did this prove a conspiracy on the part of Washington?

The delegates of the Ohio Convention were not so impressed with the value of their debates that they considered the reading of them essential to an intelligent vote. Many of the delegates consider the publication of these debates useless. The college professors pleaded that they would be of historic value. It was decided that a few hundred copies should be printed for library shelves, but whoever dreamed that the voters would desire to wade through a thousand pages of stenographic reports to see what the delegates said about the Initiative and Referendum, for instance, before they expressed their own opinion? These debates were ordered printed because it was realized that in future times they would help students of history to understand present events. There was never the remotest thought that the voters of to-day would care to read them or that the election should be deferred until they could be printed.

The date of submission was fixed for early in September so as to avoid the distraction of the fall election. It was obviously inexpedient to have the amendments submitted at the time of the regular election. No one suggested a date later than November. The delegates selected September 3rd as being about half way between the excitement of the presidential nominations and the excitement of the presidential election. It was believed that in the interim between these two excitements the people could give undivided attention to their work of constitution making, and be free to keep an eye on the big business strategy board. Of course, big business is not satisfied with the date of the election. The election itself, we trust, will prove even less satisfactory to these special interests.

A SLOGAN FOR THE BATTLE

As for the outcome of this battle on the 3d of September, we have this to reassure us. The Initiative and Referendum has never yet been rejected by popular vote in any State in the Union. But we should not aim merely at a victory. What about the size of the victory? It should be decisive. It should be decisive enough to put every Bourbon battery out of commission. Here's a slogan for the charge—"A half million majority for No. 6." Whatever else we do let us seek out the initiative and referendum, which will be No. 6 on the ballot, and vote for that. Let us talk No. 6 from now until September 3. Let us volunteer to stand at the polls election morning when the bulk of the voting is done. Let us organize to see that the count is watched on election night. "A half million majority for No. 6." With this slogan the rout of the enemy should be complete.

There are but two questions involved. Are you in favor of popular government? Is this initiative and referendum amendment, providing for popular government, a wise and fair measure?

BEAUTIFUL MATRON OF WASHINGTON

Mrs. William S. Reyburn is one of the most beautiful and most popular women in Washington social circles and her home is the scene of many delightful entertainments.

MARRIAGE RITES IN ARMENIA

Ancient and Odd Customs Are Still Commonly Observed in This Country.

Constantinople, Turkey.—Cupid has little chance in Armenia, where young women are closely secluded and kept away from all social intercourse with young men. From the time of her birth the life of the Armenian girl is regulated by her parents, even to the arrangements for her marriage and the choosing of a husband for her, and so closely is she watched that love affairs before marriage are unknown, and, indeed, as she is never allowed to see a man outside of her own family, there is little chance for Cupid to play any tricks on susceptible hearts.

As soon as a girl is born to them Armenian parents begin to lay aside money and fine linens for her marriage portion. When she is considered to have reached the marriageable age her mother sends a message to the guardians or parents of some young man who she thinks would be a suitable husband for her daughter, describing the girl's beauty, admirable qualities and particularly the amount of her dowry.

The marriage follows shortly, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, and the ceremony is as imposing as the ritual of the Greek church can make it. The bride, richly garbed in white silks and billows of lace, has quantities of jingling coins dangling from her braids, and both she and the bridegroom wear wreaths of artificial flowers. While the marriage rites are being solemnized the couple must stand or kneel before the priest for several hours with their foreheads pressed together. Meanwhile, drums, bells and other noisy instruments do all they can to detract from the solemnity of the occasion.

When the ceremony is concluded the female relatives of the bride rush to kiss the bridegroom, while they put into his pockets lumps of sugar and fasten ribbons upon his breast. The bride receives no attention whatever.

Dies From Hiccoughs.

New York.—After hiccoughing for five weeks, George Washington Stewart (colored) has just died at the General Hospital.

An Historical Character.

"He was greatly disappointed in Paris."

"Why?"

"Seems his chief object in going there was to make a pilgrimage to the home of Monte Carlo, and nobody could point out the house."

RURAL COP LIVES IN CLOVER

Getting the Market's Best, Awaiting Millionaire's Return to Collect Note.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Constable George Morris, monarch of all he surveys in the village of Nottingham, now lolling in the lap of luxury, is having the time of his life at the country mansion of Patrick Calhoun, multimillionaire traction magnate and real estate operator. Miss Martha Calhoun, heiress, has given the retinue of servants orders to serve Constable Morris' every wish.

Morris is at the mansion awaiting Calhoun's return from California to collect a judgment for $7,910, rendered by a California court.

"Now, nothing like that; Miss Calhoun had the servants give me some, you know," is the way Morris met the accusation that he went home for some pajamas.

"Eat? I've been eating like a house afire up here. Anything I want, you know. This morning I had ham and herring, demitasse, and, well, all the rest of the program. Haven't broken a plate yet. Nope, there's nothing doing on the 'wine and the red stuff.' 'Twouldn't be proper with Pat anyway. But I'm not embarrassed because he's gone."

"So your eldest boy has joined a glee club?"

"Yes."

"What caused him to take that step?"

"I don't know. But, judging by sound, I suspect it must have been melancholia."

Hay fever and asthma make August a month of intense suffering to many people. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gives prompt ease and relief, and is soothing and healing to the inflamed membranes. Wm. M. Mathew, N. Searport, Me., says: "I suffered with asthma for many years, and have used many a doctor's prescription without avail. A few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound relieved me and less than a bottle caused a complete cure. I am glad to let others know what Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has done for me. Refuse substitutes. Blackmer and Tanquary."

BECOMES MAYOR BY ACCIDENT

Charles Carter, a laborer and the son of an English bookmaker, has been elected mayor of Mouffry, a village near Auxerre, in the department of Yonne, France. His election was the result of a joke, and he has been asked to resign in consequence, but firmly insists on holding the office. Carter, who is only twenty-six years of age, is a naturalized Frenchman and cannot speak English.

NEEDLE IN TOE 30 YEARS

After carrying a needle in her foot for thirty years Mrs. Daniel S. Hornbeck, a school teacher of Milford, N. J., had the bit of steel removed by a chiropodist at Newton, N. J. For the last few years she had a severe pain in her large toe and the chiropodist, in removing a supposed corn, extracted a good sized sewing needle, which had imbedded itself in the bone of the toe. Thirty years ago, when Mrs. Hornbeck was a ten-year-old girl running about in the fields at Dingman's Ferry, she stepped upon the needle. She ran into the house, but there was no sign of the needle in her toe and it was supposed she had stepped upon something sharp and been pricked by it.

Mrs. Flattemann—Oh, you have heard my daughter sing, have you? Sings like a bird, doesn't she? Won't she Uppe—Well, I don't know. Birds stop at night, I believe.

HOW IT WAS NAMED.

Nottingham lace was so called because it originally was made by the semi-savage people who lived in the caves in England. By keeping the work between them and the dark mouth of the cave the women could work the pattern easily. Nottingham, or any other lace, even the finest and filmiest, can be washed safely and quickly with Easy Task soap, which is a natural, scientific cleanser and leaves the lace in the best condition. Easy Task costs but five cents a cake at your grocer's.

Airship and Ships of the Sea

Most remarkable and beautiful was the scene witnessed by the spectators at a recent yacht race at Kiel, Germany. While the big yachts were tearing through the water the Zeppelin airship, Victoria, Luise emerged from its shed and sailed over the racers of the sea for a long distance.

NOVEL ELECTRIC RESTAURANT

An electric restaurant, which entirely does away with the services of waiters, has been installed in Paris. It is fitted with tables for one, two, three, four and larger numbers of guests. Beneath the dining room is the kitchen and dishes prepared below are sent straight up to the tables through the floor.

A guest gives his order through an electrophone attached to the electric lamp on the table. The electrophone carries the voice to the kitchen below without any special effort of the diner to speak into it. The dish ordered comes up through a moderate-sized hole in the table. When the diner wishes to get rid of dishes or glasses he merely says so and they disappear silently through the hole by which they came. When the table is a large one the dish can be made to circulate and stop before any diner who wishes it.

No waiter or human assistant appears at the table from the moment the diner sits down until he goes out. When he wishes to pay his check he says so. It comes up through the table, he leaves the money and goes away. There is no waiter to be tipped and none to feel aggrieved because he is not tipped. The inventor of the system is M. Georgia Knap, a noted electrician living in Paris, but of foreign origin.

RAPID SKI-ING ON WATER

A German cabinet maker has constructed a pair of water shoes, with the help of which he walks upon the water. He has already crossed Lake Ammer in Bavaria, 12,000 feet wide, in two hours. These water shoes are really two long, narrow boxes of pine wood, squared off at the rear end and shaped like the bow of a boat in front. To preserve his balance the traveler grasps two upright posts. At the outer edge of each boot or shoe three small paddles, shaped like rudders, are fastened. These move on hinges and are worked by a sliding mechanism that is operated by the traveler pushing his feet forward alternately, somewhat like a boy learning to skate. He can travel rapidly, and with safety on smooth water, although the apparatus is probably not fit for use in stormy weather. Those who have tested it assert that it does not tax the strength as much as rowing a moderately sized boat. The inventor uses his water shoes almost every day for crossing the lake and transporting his tools and a moderate amount of baggage.

DENTISTRY ON AN ELEPHANT

It became necessary recently to call a dentist to one of the elephants in the Zoological gardens at Rio de Janeiro. The dentist saw at once what the trouble was—a hollow tooth—but confessed his inability to fill it or to pull it out without assistance. The elephant was not in a happy frame of mind, for it had a really elephantine toothache. But the dentist and the keepers devised a method. They tied a strong rope to the tooth, fastening it carefully and securely with platinum wire, and then 15 men took hold and pulled. The elephant seemed to know that something for its good was being done for it kept quiet and showed no sign of anger—that is, until the 15 men gave the fourth pull, which brought the huge tooth out. Then the elephant trumpeted with pain and anger and the 15 men deemed it wise to run. But after a few minutes of wrath the beast, now relieved of its pain, became calm.

The Voice of Big Business

Mr. Allen Ripley Foote, of The Ohio State Board of Commerce, has issued a pamphlet of one hundred and sixty pages on the amendments to the State Constitution to be voted upon Tuesday, September 3rd.

This pamphlet is interesting as a revelation of the mind of "the interests," and the attitude of big business generally towards the work of Ohio's Fourth Constitutional Convention.

The orators of reaction will find this a suggestive campaign book. It is heartily commended to all who would like to know what the opposition has to say. Moreover, the progressive, if he has a sense of humor, will find it entertaining reading. It is ingenious in its fault-finding. It is quite pathetic in its lamentations. Distressful things are to befall us. Woe upon woe will assail us, so we are told. The only safety is to vote down all amendments. This is the advice of the privileged rich. They would forego all possibility of progress, for fear of inconvenience to themselves. This is not the counsel that prevailed in 1776. It is not the spirit that put down chattel slavery. What infamies would fill the world, what countless cruelties would still remain, if the divine impulse for improvement had never triumphed over the craven fear which forever places the miser's hoard above the huddled and hungry herd—clinking dollars above aching human hearts; little deeds above the Sermon on the Mount.

The Ohio State Board of Commerce, through its agent, Allen Ripley Foote, complains that the special election is to be held Tuesday, September 3rd, before the debates of the Convention can be printed. Big business pretends to find in this fact evidence of a conspiracy. It is contended that the people should have been given a chance to read the debates before voting upon the forty-two amendments.

We respectfully call attention to the fact that the proceedings of the Federal Constitutional Convention never were published. The private notes of Madison even were not made public until the constitution was a half-century old. Did this prove a conspiracy on the part of Washington?

The delegates of the Ohio Convention were not so impressed with the value of their debates that they considered the reading of them essential to an intelligent vote. Many of the delegates consider the publication of these debates useless. The college professors pleaded that they would be of historic value. It was decided that a few hundred copies should be printed for library shelves, but whoever dreamed that the voters would desire to wade through a thousand pages of stenographic reports to see what the delegates said about the Initiative and Referendum, for instance, before they expressed their own opinion? These debates were ordered printed because it was realized that in future time they would help students of history to understand present events. There was never the remotest thought that the voters of to-day would care to read them or that the election should be deferred until they could be printed.

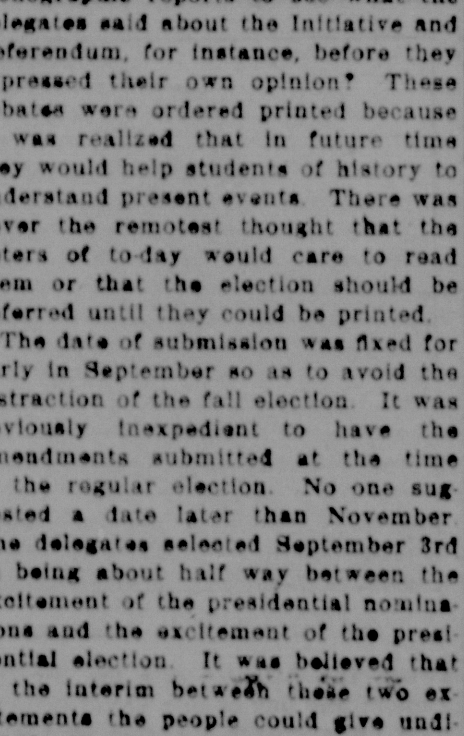

The date of submission was fixed for early in September so as to avoid the distraction of the fall election. It was obviously inexpedient to have the amendments submitted at the time of the regular election. No one suggested a date later than November. The delegates selected September 3rd as being about half way between the excitement of the presidential nominations and the excitement of the presidential election. It was believed that in the interim between these two excitements the people could give undivided attention to their work of constitution making, and be free to keep an eye on the big business strategy board. Of course, big business is not satisfied with the date of the election. The election itself, we trust, will prove even less satisfactory to these special interests.

MARRIAGE RITES IN ARMENIA

Ancient and Odd Customs Are Still Commonly Observed in This Country.

Constantinople, Turkey.—Cupid has little chance in Armenia, where young women are closely secluded and kept away from all social intercourse with young men. From the time of her birth the life of the Armenian girl is regulated by her parents, even to the arrangements for her marriage and the choosing of a husband for her, and so closely is she watched that love affairs before marriage are unknown, and, indeed, as she is never allowed to see a man outside of her own family, there is little chance for Cupid to play any tricks on susceptible hearts.

As soon as a girl is born to them Armenian parents begin to lay aside money and fine linens for her marriage portion. When she is considered to have reached the marriageable age

A SLOGAN FOR THE BATTLE

As for the outcome of this battle on the 24 of September, we have this to reassure us. The initiative and referendum has never yet been rejected by popular vote in any State in the Union. But we should not aim merely at a victory. What about the size of the victory? It should be decisive. It should be decisive enough to put every Bourbon battery out of commission. Here's a slogan for the charge—"A half million majority for No. 6." What ever else we do let us seek out the initiative and referendum, which will be No. 6 on the ballot, and vote for that. Let us talk No. 6 from now until September 3. Let us volunteer to stand at the polls election morning when the bulk of the voting is done. Let us organize to see that the count is watched on election night. "A half million majority for No. 6." With this slogan the rout of the enemy should be complete.

There are but two questions involved. Are you in favor of popular government? Is this initiative and referendum amendment, providing for popular government, a wise and fair measure?

RURAL COP LIVES IN CLOVER

Getting the Market's Best, Awaiting Millionaire's Return to Collect Note.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Constable George Morris, monarch of all he surveys in the village of Nottingham, now lolling in the lap of luxury, is having the time of his life at the country mansion of Patrick Calhoun, multimillionaire traction magnate and real estate operator. Miss Martha Calhoun, heiress, has given the retinue of servants orders to serve Constable Morris' every wish.

Morris is at the mansion awaiting Calhoun's return from California to collect a judgment for $7,910, rendered by a California court.

"Now, nothing like that; Miss Calhoun had the servants give me some, you know," is the way Morris met the accusation that he went home for some palamas.

"Eat? I've been eating like a house afire up here. Anything I want, you know. This morning I had ham and herring, demitasse, and, well, all the rest of the program. Haven't broken a plate yet. Nope, there's nothing doing on the 'wine and the red stuff.' 'Twouldn't be proper with Pat anyway. But I'm not embarrassed because he's gone."

"So your eldest boy has joined a glee club?"

"Yes."

"What caused him to take that step?"

"I don't know. But, judging by sound, I suspect it must have been melancholia."

Hay fever and asthma make August a month of intense suffering to many people. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gives prompt ease and relief, and is soothing and healing to the inflamed membranes. Wm. M. Mathew, N. Searspoint, Me., says: "I suffered with asthma for many years, and have used many a doctor's prescription without avail. A few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound relieved me and less than a bottle caused a complete cure. I am glad to let others know what Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has done for me. Refuse substitutes. Blackmer and Tanquary."

BECOMES MAYOR BY ACCIDENT

Charles Carter, a laborer and the son of an English bookmaker, has been elected mayor of Moully, a village near Auxerre, in the department of Yonne, France. His election was the result of a joke, and he has been asked to resign in consequence, but firmly insists on holding the office. Carter, who is only twenty-six years of age, is a naturalized Frenchman and cannot speak English.

NEEDLE IN TOE 30 YEARS

After carrying a needle in her foot for thirty years Mrs. Daniel S. Hornbeck, a school teacher of Milford, N. J., had the bit of steel removed by a chiropodist at Newton, N. J. For the last few years she had a severe pain in her large toe and the chiropodist, in removing a supposed corn, extracted a good sized sewing needle, which had imbedded itself in the bone of the toe. Thirty years ago, when Mrs. Hornbeck was a ten-year-old girl running about in the fields at Dingman's Ferry, she stepped upon the needle. She ran into the house, but there was no sign of the needle in her toe and it was supposed she had stepped upon something sharp and been pricked by it.

Mrs. Flattemann—Oh, you have heard my daughter sing, have you? Sings like a bird, doesn't she? Wondite Uppe—Well, I don't know. Birds stop at night, I believe.

The Local Ball Team Wins an Easy Game From Mechanicsburg

Those famous Washington Athletics of ours met the Mechanicsburg boys, ambidextrous pitcher and all, at the Columbus avenue grounds Sunday afternoon and roughly sloughed the aforesaid ambidextrous pitcher to all corners of the lot, romped off with an easy victory by the score of 10 to 4.

Our own Heironamus was derrick-ed, not so much on account of poor pitching, as on account of the wobbles which our fielders insisted on making on the hard drives off his delivery. It seemed that "Hi" was putting a certain kind of stuff on the ball which, when the batter connected with it made the pellet exceedingly hard to handle cleanly.

Chaffin, who succeeded him on the mound, went along easily and had the visitors nibbling out of his hand during the rest of the route.

The score is as follows:

Bill Bergen, former Brooklyn catcher, exiled to the International league, says that George Bell, his fellow-exile, is a better pitcher than anything Bill Dahlen has on his Brooklyn team outside of Rucker and that Bell will show it when he gets back in the big league. Bell returns the compliment and says Bergen is so much better than anything on the Dodger catching staff that there is no comparison.

Red Legs Are Easy For the Boston Boys

Boston Bean Eaters Slug Ball and Win Game.

Cincinnati, Oct. 19.—A batting rally in the first inning that netted four runs gave the Boston Beaneaters the game with the Reds. Rube Benton proved easy for the visitors and he was soon chased to the bench. The Reds made a rally later in the game, but could not get up in time to win. Four Boston hurlers went to the mound.

Hub Purdue Irritated.

Hub Purdue was said to have received less money with Boston than some of the pitchers on the staff who haven't put in a full game yet this year. No wonder he was irritated.

MAKES ANSON PEEVISH

Manager Jennings Recalls Player's Duplicity.

Arrie Latham, Famous as Clown of National Game, Puts Up Job on Former Manager of Champion Chicago National Team.

Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Tigers recently recalled the famous gumming of the cards in "Pop" Anson's great baseball play of years ago. It was a tale of player duplicity upon a public idol and was told as follows:

Pop in the show was a young diamond hero who had set his heart on winning the fair young girl whose "pa" was worth a million. In the last act he won his bride by laming the ball out for a home run, thereby winning a pennant for his team and saving the fortune for "pa." As he raced over the plate with the winning tally the girl jumped from the grand stand and threw her arms around his manly neck, murmuring, "Muh hero!"

It "went" great until the manager conceived the great idea in New York of holding a "baseball night." The National league meeting was on and many of the stars of that day were around the hotels. The manager decided to invite them to take part in the great home-run scene, letting them act as players on the field. The show was widely advertised and a great crowd turned out to see such men as Willie Keeler, Arrie Latham, Johnny McGraw, Hughie Jennings and others in the cast. Jennings tells the story of what followed.

"Latham would have his joke," explains Hughie. "He fixed it all up with Keeler, who played third base in the show that night. The performance went all right until the last act, when Pop was to make his great home run hit.

"Pop walloped the ball and started on his run around the sacks. As he rounded third Keeler stuck out his foot and tripped him. He sprawled on all fours. Before he could get his balance again and reach home they had thrown the ball to the plate. If I remember rightly, Willbur Robinson was catching. He was in on the deal. They tagged poor Pop. Arrie Latham was acting as umpire.

"You're out," Arrie shrieked. "Pop sprang to his feet with fire in his eye. He roared so that he shook the house. Never at his maddest was he wilder on the ball field. 'I'm not out,' he yelled desperately, trying to catch Latham's eye to tell him how the act should go. 'You're out,' Arrie insisted.

"The girl had thrown herself from the stand to wrap her arms around her hero's neck, which by this time was about as red as raw beef. 'Get off the field or I'll send you to the clubhouse!' Arrie roared, and that was the last straw. They rang down the curtain.

"Pop wouldn't speak to the boys for several seasons after that little incident."

As the Highlanders wanted Walsh, Lord, Bodie, the new park and Comiskey's deposit vault key in exchange, the White Sox stopped negotiating for Hal Chase.

Milwaukee fans are pleased over the retention of Hughie Duffy for another season. The Brewers are showing better this summer than they have for many seasons.

It was Ira Thomas of the Athletics who discovered how to prevent Ty Cobb stealing. Just have the Dixie daredevil on first with the bases full and any catcher has him at his mercy.

Talk about winning streaks, in 1875 Boston had a team that didn't lose a game on the home grounds all season and only twelve on the road.

The Pirates have dug up a fast outfielder in Eddie Mensor, of the Portland club of the Northwestern league, paying $3,000 in cash for the prize.

Marty O'Toole, the high-priced twirler of the Pirates, has been having his share of hard luck. He has pitched several fine games only to lose them.

Jake Stahl is not overconfident that his bunch will be able to pull through. The Woodlawn banker is too good a business man to figure anything a sure thing.

Washington fans are going to present Clyde Milan with a gold crown at the end of the season—though what the dickens he'll do with it nobody knows.

St. Louis says that Arnold Hauser of the Cardinals has shoved Mike Doolan of the Phillies off the map as the best fielding shortstop in the game today.

McGraw says: "You can have your Cobbs, your Lajoles, your Chases, your Bakers and all the rest, but I'll take Hans Wagner for mine as the greatest ever."

George McConnell, the elongated twirler of the Highlanders, has been pitching good ball this season. Steady work has made McConnell a consistent performer.

PENNANT-WINNING PLAYS

By IRWIN M. HOWE, Official Statistician of the American League

"HOME RUN" BAKER'S "COMING OUT" DAY

RED FIRE illumined Philadelphia Oct. 16, 1911. That day marked the rise of a new national figure in baseball. It gave the major leagues their first real "home run" player in years, a being supposed to inhabit the bush league jungles exclusively. It was "coming out" day of J. Franklin Baker, who saved a world's pennant for the Athletics and immortalized himself as a batsman. No swing on a ball ever had greater effect on the championship than Baker's drive that day.

The setting for this historic home run was all that could be asked to make it spectacular. Christy Mathewson had humbled the Mackmen in the opening game of the series the Saturday previous at New York. The Athletics were hard pressed. Everything seemed to favor the Giants. Even the betting, a twin blight of scapling on the leading American sporting classic, pointed to McGraw and his "speed boys" as the favorites.

Rube Marquard made his debut as a post-season pitcher on that day, for the Giants. He was opposed by Eddie Plank, Mack's veteran southpaw. The battle was a tie after five innings of slab duelling in which Marquard seemed to have a shade the better of the comparison. He had allowed only two safeties while Plank had been hit for three base clouts, one a double by Herzog. It was evident that a single hit might win the game, and it did.

Up to the sixth inning, the Athletics could not fathom the youthful southpaw's deceptive speed and the Giants were unable to make connections with Plank's effective cross firing.

Eddie Collins, who has a habit of starting trouble for his opponents, made mischief for the Giants in the last half of the sixth inning when he drove a double to left, with two men out.

Only one obstacle lay between Marquard and success at this period of the game, and that was the next player up in Philadelphia's batting order. If he could dispose of that batsman, he might win his spurs as a rival of Mathewson in the big series. In this crisis arose the stolid but unassuming hero of the day, a figure whose name was blazoned on a hundred flaming headlines at nightfall. J. Franklin Baker, eager and confident, stepped to the plate, his last appearance at bat that day.

The first offering of Marquard was a ball. He sent the second one over the edge of the plate waist high. Baker put all the force of his massive shoulders into that classic swing. He met the sphere with a crash that was heard around the baseball world. The ball sailed out almost in a line, caromed off the hand of a fan perched on the right field fence and rolled far outside Shibe park for a home run that won the game and put the Athletics on the road to victory. That drive duplicated by Baker on the following day, at New York, kept the world's flag in Philadelphia in 1911. It was the talk of the day from the street gamin to the chief executive of the United States. It gave Baker a "home run" handle for his name which all his exploits in the American league had failed to bring him.

Frank Has Unique Record.

Eddie Plank, the star left-hand pitcher of the world's champion Athletics line of the American league, is showing all his old-time skill. He has been with the Athletics for twelve years, joining them after leaving Gettysburg (Pa.) college, and never pitched for any other team than the champions.

Johnson Sent Back.

Pitcher Johnson, the recruit from the Racine (Wis.) team, who was tried out in the two innings of the second game Saturday, was sent back to his club by Manager Callahan because he did not seem to have the needed experience.

ANNUAL BATTLE OF THE BREEDS

Live Stock Show at Ohio State Fair Grandest in History.

TO GIVE $60,000 IN PREMIUMS

Each Class Will Be Represented by Finest Types of Pure Bred Animals and Prizes Eagerly Sought by Best of Breeders—Building Equipment Enlarged to Accommodate Increased Number of Exhibits.

Ohio's State Fair, famed for its exhibits of live stock, will this year present a stock display that will closely rival the International Show at Chicago. Experts concede that Ohio has the finest and most commodious stock buildings in the Union. During the year past a large addition to the sheep building was completed. Three hundred additional pens have thus been provided, and it will not be necessary to house any part of the exhibit under tents. A section of this addition has been reserved for swine, which will provide ample room to house under roof all animals of this department. This improvement will not only be greatly appreciated by exhibitors, but will afford visitors an opportunity to better view all animals entered in the sheep and swine departments.

Entries in the stock departments closed Saturday, Aug. 10. The grandest stock show in Ohio's history is assured. Never before were so many entries recorded. Not a class but that will be represented by the best types of animals. Competition will be keen. Famous stables, herds and flocks will be represented in the show rings. The liberal premiums offered will be eagerly sought. Well may the winners feel proud, where the battle of the breeds will wage from the opening date, Aug. 26, until the closing, Aug. 31. Improved live stock will be the slogan of the battle. The winners will emerge from the conflict famed throughout the land. Those unribbonsed will not feel the pangs of defeat, inasmuch as they lost in a fight where the nation's best in the live stock world was engaged.

STATE FAIR RACES TO BE CLASSY EVENTS

Harness and Running Contests Week of Aug. 26-31.

When the bell taps on Aug. 26 and the starter gives the word "go," there will be inaugurated the best race meeting ever held on a half-mile track. The Ohio State Fair will be the scene. The race course there, with its 100 foot stretch, is admittedly the fastest two-lap ring on the map. Fifteen harness events are scheduled, three each day, Aug. 26-30. On Saturday, Aug. 31, the jumpers will occupy the track. Four races are programmed that day. No less than 50 running horses will be seen in action. Royal sport is assured all visitors. Following is the complete program:

Monday, Aug. 26—2:15 trot, purse $800; 2:13 pace, purse $1,000; 2:35 trot, purse $500.

Tuesday, Aug. 27—2:20 pace, purse $600; 2:10 trot, purse $1,000; 2:26 pace, purse $500.

Wednesday, Aug. 28—2:18 trot, purse $800; 2:15 pace, purse $1,000; 2:25 trot, purse $600.

Thursday, Aug. 29—2:10 pace, purse $800; 2:12 trot, purse $1,000; 2:30 pace, purse $500.

Friday, Aug. 30—2:23 pace, purse $600; 2:22 trot, purse $600; 2:18 pace, purse $1,000.

Saturday, Aug. 31—1/4-mile heats, 2 in 3, purse $200; 1/2-mile dash, purse $150; 1/4-mile heats, 2 in 3, purse $200; 1-mile dash, purse $150.

STATE FAIR FIREWORKS.

Grounds Will Be Illuminated With Powerful Colored Lights.

The display of fireworks at the Ohio State Fair will consist of magnificent illumination of the Fair Grounds with powerful colored lights, flights of rockets, discharge of shells, tremendous salutes to Old Glory, fiery tentacles creeping in every direction, peacock plume rockets, displaying a gorgeous veil of fiery, feathery plumes; flights of floating magnesium star rockets, aerial bouquets and numerous other creations of the pyrotechnique art, including the latest French sensation, "The Pyro-Rose Carnival." This feature is created by myriads of flying pyro-rosebuds, poppies and forget-me-nots, amid a deluge of seething golden fire and sparkles, which rise to a height of some 60 feet. Around the fountains are set at various angles, numerous tube ejectors, which throw out sheets of expanding colors and which cross and recross, forming a glittering kaleidoscopic carnival of color from the ground to a height of 80 feet.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING—OHIO STATE FAIR.

THRILLING PRODUCTION "OHIO PIONEER DAYS"

Paine's Powerful Masterpiece Vividly Portraying Trials and Harships of Early Buckeye Settlers to Be Nightly Free Feature, Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Aug. 26-31.

HISTORICAL PAGEANT OF GREAT MAGNIFICENCE

Three Hundred Performers, Forty Full-Blooded Sioux Indians, Twenty Acres of Scenery, Two Troops of Cavalry, Each Performance Closing With a Peerless Fireworks Display—A Mighty Program of Amusements.

A mammoth spectacular production, entitled, "Ohio Pioneer Days," will be the nightly free feature at the Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Aug. 26-31, inclusive. It is fitting that at this time this grand historical pageant should be produced, inasmuch as the centenary celebration of the permanent establishment of the Buckeye capital will be held in conjunction with the State Fair.

The first setting shows a peaceful scene of activity—settlers at work in their fields and timber land, their good housewives busy about the cabins, the sturdy blacksmith and helper busy at their forge; friendly Indians lounge about the trading post.

A dispatch rider is seen to approach the fort, riding hard—leaves orders for a detachment of troops to proceed west to quell an Indian uprising. The courier dashes on into the settlement, leaves the mail at the store, changes horses and is off again.

Friendly Indians are seen quarreling with the sentries at the fort and show much dissatisfaction over the rations issued to them. They are finally ordered away by the officers and proceed sullenly to their tepees. Now the great gates of the stockade open wide and a company of troops marches out and on through the settlement, cheered by the settlers, and is soon lost to view in the distance. The Indians, seeing the troops leave, send two of their number to follow them, and they can be seen skulking through timber and fields. Soon they return and amid much confusion the tepees are taken down, the horses hitched to drags, and soon all of the Indians proceed through the village amid the taunts of the settlement boys, who call after them not to come back.

A long prairie schooner is now seen approaching the settlement from the west; settlers come in from the fields to greet the strangers; the outriders report having met the soldiers and later the Indians, and indicate that they are suspicious of the Redskins. The tired travelers decide to spend the night at the settlement, and commence unhitching their team of oxen. Now, far away in the west, an Indian fire signal is seen. It is soon answered from the south and again from another point. The people of the settlement exhibit considerable uneasiness and little knobs of men are seen together watching the signals. (The troops are away.) Soon another Indian fire is started, this time much nearer the settlement, and in the dim distance the skulking figures may be seen. The fire increases in volume and the Indian chiefs may be seen addressing their people. Suddenly the dread war dance commences, and now the settlers realize that there will soon be an attack. The women and children are hastily gathered together, loaded into prairie schooners and the teamsters gallop off to the fort. Men and boys pull the wagons into the form of a hollow square; the blacksmiths, storekeepers, the trappers and hunters, the farmers, are preparing to defend their homes and loved ones.

The Indians, now worked into an insane frenzy, are coming toward the settlement with hideous yells. The settlers make a determined stand and repulse the awful horde; the Indians go back to another war dance. Now, from the opposite direction, another band of Indians are seen in a second war dance, flaming arrow signals are fired by both bands, and with a concerted charge both bands start into the settlement from opposite directions. Soon hay stacks burst into flames; the heroic band of settlers divide and fight back to back. But slowly the Redskins close in on them; soon they must go down; their prairie schooners are already burning around them! The women at the fort, knowing what their fate will be should their defenders fail, are seen firing from the port holes.

But now out of the west a welcome sound is heard—the bugle of the troops. Soon the boys in blue are seen approaching in open order on double-quick, to the rescue, but not a minute too soon. The Indians, jubilant over their victory, are taken by surprise as the soldiers surround them. The settlers, with renewed vigor, now come from behind the barricade and with the aid of the troops soon exterminate the entire band of Redskins.

This makes one of the most thrilling and exciting climaxes imaginable. The production is true to life. It makes the most realistic, thrilling, awe-inspiring spectacle ever presented.

Each evening's performance will conclude with a $5,000 fireworks display under the direction of the Paine's Fireworks Display company, America's premier pyrotechnic kings.

AGRICULTURAL DISPLAY—OHIO STATE FAIR.

Buys Grocery In Adams County

Mr. R. D. McClure, a former member of the Welton Grocery Company of this city, has purchased the Davidson and Shoemaker grocery in Peebles, Adams county, and will take charge immediately. The deal was closed Saturday, and Mr. McClure is now in Peebles making arrangements to take up the business without delay.

Mr. McClure owns property at Peebles, but the residence is occupied and the lease does not expire until late this fall, so that the family will remain here until that time.

Mr. McClure has had wide experience in the grocery business, and his store is located in the business heart of Peebles, and has heretofore done a splendid business, and under the care of the new owner there is every reason to believe that the business will increase very materially.

MEMOIR.

Ida, the youngest of seven children, born to James and Jane Cook Brown (two of whom died in infancy) died August 13th, 1912, in her 44th year.

She was married to Thomas P. Sites July 2nd, 1896. Two children were born to them, Evelyn Virginia, aged 13 years, and Thomas Brown, about 4 years.

While young, Ida united with the Presbyterian church at New Holland, O., and after becoming a resident of Washington C. H., she affiliated with that church in this city and always remained true to its principles. Her principal education was obtained at Delaware college.

She joined the lodge of Pythian Sisters at its organization, May 10, 1910, and was chosen as treasurer, which position she faithfully filled until her death. Her manner of conducting herself and the affairs of the trust reposed in her by this lodge was such that no change was made. Her accounts with her Order were kept as her account with her God, namely, ready at all times for call for inspection and settlement.

She was a woman of refined taste and culture, as those who visited her home, and conversed with her, soon learned.

She loved books, music, birds and flowers, and one of her chief ambitions was to have her little daughter proficient in music, and her friends are pleased to know, that with the training of this careful mother, Virginia has proven no disappointment, and can today produce strains equal to those of more mature years and experience. Let us hope that the death of this mother may not be a check to, or affect the musical touch of this lovely child.

From a child Mrs. Sites loved to read the higher order of poetry, and oftentimes spoke of Longfellow as an artist in his line.

She loved her little son, as she did her daughter and never failed or faltered, if his pleasure demanded her time or attention.

She was never too tired to toss his ball, tie his bows, or amuse him in the thousand ways that only mothers know and that others cannot understand.

She was kind to her family, her relatives and friends, and seemed to feel better for so being, and by so doing, drew, rather than repelled.

As evidence of this it was well known that her three nephews, Herbert, Joseph and James Kneisley loved her as their own mother, and on their learning of her serious condition, bid adieu to their toils and tried to reach her side in time to once more hear the voice of "Aunt Ida," but even though too late for this, they feel she now knows all, even their own grief.

Among those mourning her departure we find a kind generous husband, two children, one brother and three sisters, as well as many more distant relatives, and numberless friends and acquaintances.

Let them not murmur. We bid them not complain, but say instead, "God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform."

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish through the columns of this paper to extend our sincerest thanks to our many friends for their kindness shown to us through the sickness of the wife and mother and for the many floral tributes.

ANNUAL BATTLE OF THE BREEDS

Live Stock Show at Ohio State Fair Grandest in History.

TO GIVE $60,000 IN PREMIUMS

Each Class Will Be Represented by Finest Types of Pure Bred Animals and Prizes Eagerly Sought by Best of Breeders—Building Equipment
Enlarged to Accommodate Increased
Number of Exhibits.

Ohio's State Fair, famed for its exhibits of live stock, will this year present a stock display that will closely rival the International Show at Chicago. Experts concede that Ohio has the finest and most commodious stock buildings in the Union. During the year past a large addition to the sheep building was completed. Three hundred additional pens have thus been provided, and it will not be necessary to house any part of the exhibit under tents. A section of this addition has been reserved for swine, which will provide ample room to house under roof all animals of this department. This improvement will not only be greatly appreciated by exhibitors, but will afford visitors an opportunity to better view all animals entered in the sheep and swine departments.

Entries in the stock departments closed Saturday, Aug. 19. The grandest stock show in Ohio's history is assured. Never before were so many entries recorded. Not a class but that will be represented by the best types of animals. Competition will be keen. Famous stables, herds and flocks will be represented in the show rings. The liberal premiums offered will be eagerly sought. Well may the winners feel proud, where the battle of the breeds will wage from the opening date, Aug. 26, until the closing, Aug. 31. Improved live stock will be the slogan of the battle. The winners will emerge from the conflict famed throughout the land. Those unribbonsed will not feel the pangs of defeat, inasmuch as they lost in a fight where the nation's best in the live stock world was engaged.

STATE FAIR RACES TO BE CLASSY EVENTS

Harness and Running Contests
Week of Aug. 26-31.

When the bell taps on Aug. 26 and the starter gives the word "go," there will be inaugurated the best race meeting ever held on a half-mile track. The Ohio State Fair will be the scene. The race course there, with its 100 foot stretch, is admittedly the fastest two-lap ring on the map. Fifteen harness events are scheduled, three each day, Aug. 26-30. On Saturday, Aug. 31, the jumpers will occupy the track. Four races are programmed that day. No less than 50 running horses will be seen in action. Royal sport is assured all visitors. Following is the complete program:

Monday, Aug. 26—2:15 trot, purse $800; 2:13 pace, purse $1,000; 2:35 trot, purse $500.

Tuesday, Aug. 27—2:20 pace, purse $500; 2:10 trot, purse $1,000; 2:24 pace, purse $500.

Wednesday, Aug. 28—2:18 trot, purse $800; 2:15 pace, purse $1,000; 2:25 trot, purse $500.

Thursday, Aug. 29—2:10 pace, purse $800; 2:12 trot, purse $1,000; 2:30 pace, purse $500.

Friday, Aug. 30—2:23 pace, purse $600; 2:22 trot, purse $600; 2:18 pace, purse $1,000.

Saturday, Aug. 31— $\frac{1}{4}$ -mile heats, 2 in 3, purse \$200; $\frac{1}{4}$ -mile dash, purse \$150; $\frac{1}{2}$ -mile heats, 2 in 3, purse \$200; 1-mile dash, purse \$150.

STATE FAIR FIREWORKS.

Grounds Will Be Illuminated With Powerful Colored Lights.

The display of fireworks at the Ohio State Fair will consist of magnificent illumination of the Fair Grounds with powerful colored lights, flights of rockets, discharge of shells, tremendous salutes to Old Glory, fiery tentacles creeping in every direction, peacock plume rockets, displaying a gorgeous veil of fiery, feathery plumes; flights of floating magnesium star rockets, aerial bouquets and numerous other creations of the pyrotechnical art, including the latest French sensation, "The Pyro-Rose Carnival." This feature is created by myriads of flying pyro-rosebuds, popples and forget-me-nots, amid a deluge of seething golden fire and spangles, which rise to a height of some 60 feet. Around the fountains are set at various angles, numerous tube ejectors, which throw out sheets of expanding colors and which cross and recross, forming a glittering kaleidoscope carnival of color from the ground to a height of 60 feet.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING—OHIO STATE FAIR.

THRILLING PRODUCTION "OHIO PIONEER DAYS"

Paine's Powerful Masterpiece Vividly Portraying Trials and Harships of Early Buckeye Settlers to Be Nightly
Free Feature, Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Aug. 26-31.

HISTORICAL PAGEANT OF GREAT MAGNIFICENCE

Three Hundred Performers, Forty Full-Blooded Sioux Indians,
Twenty Acres of Scenery, Two Troops of Cavalry, Each
Performance Closing With a Peerless Fireworks
Display—A Mighty Program of Amusements.

A mammoth spectacular production, entitled "Ohio Pioneer Days," will be the nightly free feature at the Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Aug. 26-31, inclusive. It is fitting that at this time this grand historical pageant should be produced, inasmuch as the centenary celebration of the permanent establishment of the Buckeye capital will be held in conjunction with the State Fair.

The first setting shows a peaceful scene of activity—settlers at work in their fields and timber land, their good housewives busy about the cabins, the sturdy blacksmith and helper busy at their forge; friendly Indians lounge about the trading post.

A dispatch rider is seen to approach the fort, riding hard—leaves orders for a detachment of troops to proceed west to quell an Indian uprising. The courier dashes on into the settlement, leaves the mail at the store, changes horses and is off again.

Friendly Indians are seen quarreling with the sentries at the fort and show much dissatisfaction over the rations issued to them. They are finally ordered away by the officers and proceed sullenly to their tepees. Now the great gates of the stockade open wide and a company of troops marches out and on through the settlement, cheered by the settlers, and is soon lost to view in the distance. The Indians, seeing the troops leave, send two of their number to follow them, and they can be seen skulking through timber and fields. Soon they return and amid much confusion the tepees are taken down, the horses hitched to drags, and soon all of the Indians proceed through the village amid the taunts of the settlement boys, who call after them not to come back.

A long prairie schooner is now seen approaching the settlement from the west; settlers come in from the fields to greet the strangers; the out-riders report having met the soldiers and later the Indians, and indicate that they are suspicious of the Redskins. The tired travelers decide to spend the night at the settlement, and commence unhitching their team of oxen. Now, far away in the west, an Indian fire signal is seen. It is soon answered from the south and again from another point. The people of the settlement exhibit considerable uneasiness and little knobs of men are seen together watching the signals. (The troops are away.) Soon another Indian fire is started, this time much nearer the settlement, and in the dim distance the skulking figures may be seen. The fire increases in volume and the Indian chiefs may be seen addressing their people. Suddenly the dread war dance commences, and now the settlers realize that there will soon be an attack. The women and children are hastily gathered together, loaded into prairie schooners and the teamsters gallop off to the fort. Men and boys pull the wagons into the form of a hollow square; the blacksmiths, storekeepers, the trappers and hunters, the farmers, are preparing to defend their homes and loved ones.

The Indians, now worked into an insane frenzy, are coming toward the settlement with hideous yells. The settlers make a determined stand and repulse the awful horde; the Indians go back to another war dance. Now, from the opposite direction, another band of Indians are seen in a second war dance, flaming arrow signals are fired by both bands, and with a concerted charge both bands start into the settlement from opposite directions. Soon hay stacks burst into flames; the heroic band of settlers divide and fight back to back. But slowly the Redskins close in on them; soon they must go down; their prairie schooners are already burning around them! The women at the fort, knowing what their fate will be should their defenders fail, are seen firing from the port holes.

But now out of the west a welcome sound is heard—the bugle of the troops. Soon the boys in blue are seen approaching in open order on double-quick, to the rescue, but not a minute too soon. The Indians, jubilant over their victory, are taken by surprise as the soldiers surround them. The settlers, with renewed vigor, now come from behind the barricade and with the aid of the troops soon exterminate the entire band of Redskins.

This makes one of the most thrilling and exciting climaxes imaginable. The production is true to life. It makes the most realistic, thrilling, awe-inspiring spectacle ever presented.

Each evening's performance will conclude with a $5,000 fireworks display under the direction of the Paine's Fireworks Display company, America's premier pyrotechnic kings.
